

A Touching Experience

The 1800's meet the 21st century at the Eagles Mere Museum. This summer two interns from Penn State have come to help us archive and interpret the treasures we have from the past. Ben Goff, a senior, and Andrea Miller, a recent graduate, are bringing us into the technology age with a new dimension to how we present old artifacts and the history of Eagles Mere.

With their help, our museum now invites you to come touch and not just look. That is, we now have a touch screen opportunity for those of you who wish to push a button and find out more information about the history of our small borough in Sullivan County, PA. This interactive touch screen display allows you to read original menus from the hotels, view old postcards, watch short videos on the legends and history of Eagles Mere and peruse upcoming town events. Listening to Bush James tell the famous story of the bass and the squirrel is worth the trip to Eagles Mere. See you at the Museum!

Free walking tours of the town are scheduled for Saturday, August 7th and Tuesday, August 17th at 9:30 AM and ending at 11 AM. They will start from the front porch of the General Store. For more information call Bush James at 570-525-3632.
